Bluffton Area Gardeners

February 25, 2020

Onions & Leeks:

Whether you love them or hate them they are an essential part of any kitchen garden. If you want to have success with these members of the Lily family, Allium cepa./onion or Allium ampeloprasum./leek, you need to come to our next meeting and learn what has been successful for Amanda Wischmeyer of the Little Riley Creek Farm. The meeting will be at the Bluffton Public Library 6:30p.m. Tuesday March 3, 2020, in the basement meeting room. Amanda will be discussing how and when to start onions and leeks from seed and when/how they should be planted. Although the last year was not a good year for growing these two, with the wet spring that stretched into summer and delayed the planting we still had some to use.

Please come and join us and bring a friend or more as this meeting is free and open to the public. We need to spread the knowledge and experience that Amanda has on this subject. As you know knowledge is the only thing that you can truly take to the grave, so it is best to give it away freely to anyone who needs it.
